Good newes from all quarters of the Kingdom, particularly from Gloucester, the more strange from the noveltie, first printed, and at that time, when the adversary was storming that citie, and yet most strange from its antiquitie, because assured us by a word more stable than the earth or heaven, and by letter of ancient date sent to Hezekiah king of Judah—We have the same assurance also touching a strange destruction to the wicked, specially to those princes all, who have filled the land with blood, that those shall not die the common death nor be visited after the visitation of all men, because they have done more wickedly than ever any princes before them. The sober reader will heare all this and feare, and yet be glad with exceeding joy, but the hearing of this will vex and fret to the heart the post, and the court Mercury (the author has a saying here to both these notorious knaves) and will render them most notorious lyars, and make them and such furious fooles storm like madmen. An Address to the Ladies of Glocester, by a Lady in the College.

Why will ye lavish out your years
Amidst a thousand trifling cares?
While in this various range of thought
The one thing needful is forgot?
Why will ye chace the fleeting wind
And famish an immortal mind;

While Angels with regret look down
To see you spurn a heavenly crown ?
Th' Eternal God calls from above,
And Jesus pleads his bleeding love ;
Awaken'd conscience gives you pain,
And shall they join their pleas in vain ?

Glocester, Printed by John Pytt. MDCCLXXV. 8vo. 43

A second and last address to the Ladies of Glocester, by a Lady in the College.

Life is the time to serve the Lord,
The time t'insure the great reward,
And while the lamp holds out to burn,
The vilest sinner may return.
Life is the hour that God has given
To 'scape from hell, and fly to heaven—
The day of grace, and mortals may
Secure the blessings of the day.—
Then what my thoughts assign to do,
My hands with all your might pursue,
Since no device nor work is found,
Nor Faith, nor Hope, beneath the ground.
There are no acts of pardon pass'd
In the cold grave to which we haste ;
But darkness, death and long despair
Reign in eternal silence there.
